Telemedicine

Arent Fox's Health Care team assists clients and their patients around the world to construct innovative and effective approaches to emerging telemedicine issues.

Our Focus

We advise telemedicine clients on a wide range of regulatory issues arising from the provision of this fast-growing treatment modality.

Our team assists with the development of solutions to new and evolving challenges related to licensure, reimbursement, privacy concerns, and fraud and abuse issues. As the laws and regulations governing the practice of telemedicine continue evolving to keep pace with technological innovation, we work to ensure that our clients stay ahead of this curve.

What We Do

- Provide guidance regarding requirements for reimbursement for telemedicine services (both for Federal programs including Medicare and Medicaid, and commercial payers). Provide guidance regarding state licensure requirements for the practice of telemedicine.
- Provide guidance regarding requirements for the practice of telemedicine in each state, including telemedicine platform requirements (including synchronous and asynchronous modalities).
- Provide advice regarding the structuring of contractual arrangements between third parties, distant, and originating sites for the provision of technology and professional services.
- Assess compliance risks associated with telemedicine and advise clients on strategies to mitigate those risks.
- Develop telemedicine practice materials, including compliance program and HIPAA materials, as well as patient consent forms.
- Assist clients in developing business models to help further their footprint in the telemedicine space.
